Three Chinese Doctors Learn about Gastro-Intestinal Endoscopy at Gunma University Hospital during 2016~2017

Motoyasu Kusano, M.D., Ph.D.
Clinical Professor, Dept. of Endoscopy and Endoscopic Surgery
Gunma University Hospital

Dr. Lu Qin (盧芩) of Zhongda Hospital, Southeast University, Nanjing recently returned to China after spending three successful months gaining knowledge and expertise in the area of Japanese endoscopic techniques, including Endoscopic Mucosal Resection (ESD), Endoscopic Retrograde Cholangiopancreatography (ERCP), and Magnifying Endoscopy (ME), among others.

Not only did Dr. Lu visit Gunma University Hospital, but she also had the opportunity to study with Drs. Sohara and Onozato at the Shirakawa Clinic and Dr. Kiriyama from the Gunma General Hospital. All three expert endoscopists are part-time Assistant Professors at Gunma University Hospital.

Dr. Lu attended several scientific medical meetings with us in Tokyo, Osaka and Karuizawa. We believe that she had many splendid experiences in Japan. Other Chinese doctors present during these meetings included Dr. Sun Bin (孫斌) from the First Affiliated Hospital of Anhui Medical University, who stayed in Japan from January to April 2016 and Dr. Tang Jun (唐郡) from the 105th Hospital of Chinese PLA, who stayed in Japan from June to August 2016. We also had a wonderful time with them.

We greatly appreciate Dr. Ma Xinghua (麻興華), originally from Beijing, for his efforts in coordinating all matters between Japan and China. Dr. Ma studied towards a Ph.D. with Professor Ike (microbiology) at Gunma University Graduate School of Medicine. Dr. Ma is both a part-time Assistant Professor at Gunma University Hospital and a member of staff at the Kamimoku Onsen Hospital.

Meeting of the Japan Esophageal Society at Karuizawa